THE UNIVERSITY FAREWELL

A Year of Destiny, 1951. A year of destiny for the world. A year of destiny for the United States. A year of destiny for Suffolk University.

In this year, over 300 young men and women will step forth from Suffolk University to find their place in the world. They will bear the stamp of their environment. The environment of their home, their associates, their University. Each of these, as well as many other factors, have helped to shape the character makeup of the 1951 graduate of Suffolk University, but we are concerned with what a proud and dynamic 24-year-old University has left with these men and women who will now venture to carry the name of Suffolk University to far away places.

It is difficult to measure the effect that any university has upon those who enter it as a freshman and depart four years later, degree in hand, to set about conquering the world. Perhaps, the most valid of these tests is the study of the product that has been produced. What this product has given to the world, to his community, and to himself. In using this measure there is no room for subjectiveness. The figures are written in the Scroll of Life for all the world to see. The Scroll has been read and Suffolk University has not been found wanting.

The graduates who step forth from the portals of Suffolk in this year of destiny will follow a path marked by a proud heritage. A heritage, that earlier Suffolk graduates have blazed to bring honor to the University and that has prepared them for their biggest battle, the battle of life.

The 1951 graduate will soon be playing his part in the production entitled, "A Better Suffolk." For his contributions to a better world or community an individual will reflect honor upon the University that has given him the training and background to grow into an individual who is able to make an intelligent contribution to a better way of life.

On a fiftieth or hundredth anniversary, the world has grown accustomed to look back upon the years that have passed

The strengths and weaknesses of Suffolk University must be studied now, on our forty-fifth birthday, if the future graduates are to carry on in the finest traditions of those who have gone before them. Those who 45 years ago, dreamed, planned, and created a Suffolk

University have seen many of their dreams and plans materialize. But a university can never remain static. It must either progress or regress. This year's graduate has lived, worked, and been a part of the progressive Suffolk University. He has been imbued with a spirit of advancement. He has seen an administration coupled with a visionary, yet practical Board of Trustees push ever forth to carry out the dreams and ideals of the founding fathers who laid the cornerstones of this university. But the production is not at an end. In our farewell, the editors of the Rambler wish to remind the graduate of what he is taking from the University.

A degree is made out of sheepskin, but what lies behind the sheepskin is made of flesh and blood. The sheepskin is transformed into a dynamic tool for living, when one remembers what has gone into its making. The degree that bears the words "Suffolk University" is the end product of an administration that has chosen wisely the curriculum, that will help best to prepare the graduate for the fast-moving world that he is about to enter. It is an administration that has guided wisely and well the human emotions with which normal healthy college students are imbued. It has directed these emotions, until they were prepared to meet the test of the world.

The degree that the graduate receives is also the effort of an untiring faculty. A faculty that is sage and sympathetic. A faculty that has imparted many years of wisdom into young minds eager for knowledge. Yet, the Suffolk faculty has recognized the fact that, here, before them stand a part of the future of America. If not the world. They have, therefore, impressed upon those who graduate in this year of destiny that education is only a tool. It is, in the final analysis, how education is applied that is important. And finally the degree is composed in part, of the fellow classmates. The ancient college adage, "My severest critics are my fellow classmates," is borne out in the path that the graduates have followed in the University. But at Suffolk, where the "esprit de corps" is at a high level, a second part must be added to that ancient college adage. At Suffolk, the quotation must read, "They are my severest critics, but they are also my closest friends."

Now, as the editorial writer signs his final "So," the editors join with the entire Rambler staff in saying, "Wherever your lives may carry you, and live in the Suffolk tradition. Good Luck and Godspeed."

163 Awards Given On Recognition Day

Recognition Day held last Monday, May 11, brought the personal feats of their fellow classmates. The ceremony opened with the Student Council Gavel being presented to the president of the Student Council, Bob Kavanaugh, by Mr. Edgar DeForest, director of Student Affairs.

Bob, 17, then, handed out 12 Student Council keys to Melvin Caruthers, Robert Clay, Billie Glickstein, Henry Hughes, Leon Hammer, Robert Kavanaugh, Paul Krome, William Lott, Trent O'Leary, Carmine Pizzi and Howard Richardson for their work in Student Government.

Bob turned the platform over to Dean Muncie who made the Who's Who awards. These awards are listed in the publication "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." Those who received these awards were Ernest Amiral, James Caras, John Clements, Theodore Curry, Francis Donoghue, John Egan, Francis Gallagher, Earl Gerson, Billie Glickstein, Leon Hammer, Joseph Hughes, Stanley Jarvis, Robert Kavanaugh, Francis Lagrotteria, Merrill Marmer, Edgar McQuarrie, George Murphy, David O'Meara, Stephen Panagiotopoulos, Irving Pickering, Norman Raby, James Shea, Donald Woodrow and Thomas Sullivan.

President Jarvis followed the presentation with a short congratulatory speech to the recipients.

Recognition Trophies

The Director of Student Affairs, Mr. DeForest, then presented 11 trophies to students for their outstanding accomplishment during the past academic year. Those who received trophies were James Caras, John Clements, Rance Donoghue, Michael Driscoll, Arnold Goralsnick, Frank Lumber, Mike Marmer, Ted Morris, Steve Panagiotopoulos, Gene Riley and Don Woodrow. In addition to the trophy recipients, 29 certificates were awarded to students for recognition in their various fields of endeavor. They were Allan Ablow, Robert Bennett, Robert Boxas, James Condon, John Conley, Henry Ellenburg, Billie Glickstein, Leon Hammer, Phil Houghton, Elliot Iren, Frank Lagrotteria, Ruth Lee, Howard Lewis, Jeanette Moznansky, James Nagle, David O'Meara, Nicholas Parella, Norman Sullivan, Walter Schenfeld, Jerry Shanahan, Don Shea, Saul Stearns, Tom Sullivan, Peri Trautman and Paul Twombly.

The Rambler Staff was present at 11 keys by Allan Ablow, Editor-in-Chief. The keys were given in behalf of the contributions that each member gave to the Rambler. Those awarded keys were: Allan Ablow, Robert Bennett, Rance Donoghue, Billie Glickstein, Arnold Goralsnick, Merrill Marmer, Richard Rosenberg, Gerald Shanahan, Peri Trautman, Saul Toly and Tom Woodrow.

Elections Result In Many Unusual Campaign Tricks

This year's election contests were among the most spirited that Suffolk has seen, since Miss Langhorne paraded his van through the halls of the University.

The Senior Class Presidency appeared to be the most hotly contested of all the University elections. Perhaps this is only natural, as the position holds the highest honor of any elected office.

The candidates used all the conventional campaign tricks, such as posters, scholastic, and so on. Each candidate added his own original twist in an attempt to capture votes.

Miss Langhorne added a personal touch to his campaign by sending his posters to the home of every member of the Senior Class.

Jack Downes appeared in the middle of the class in having a speech printed giving his record. It made quite an impressive read when he read it before the President of the Varsity Club, and he was elected.

The Rambler political staff after analyzing the campaigns, would like to congratulate all candidates on the high quality of the campaigns, conducted this year. There was no "mild slugging" in the usual collegiate manner, which speaks well of the democratic processes involved in the student of Suffolk University.

Some journalism students in an encouraging outlook in his field, when she stated that there were openings in various parts of the country for those who have an interest in it.

Miss Bennett, a personal friend of Miss Ellen Markov, was visiting Boston on a business trip when she stopped off here for the afternoon. As the chief editor of the Rambler, Miss Bennett travels a great deal throughout the state, and of the Massachusetts Press Association of five.

As soon to be expected, many questions regarding the policy and layout of employee publications were asked, and she clarified many of these specific problems.

Miss Bennett, the editor of the employee publication, "Democracy," located in St. Louis, Mo.

The varsity letterman, a total of 77, were given certificates for their winning athletic activity. These names are listed in the Marmer, Richard Rosenberg, Gerald Shanahan, Peri Trautman, Saul Toly and Tom Woodrow.

S. U. STUNTS

BY DICK ROSENBERG

Chast to coast recognition received by Suffolk Journal, according to Canadian Science Monitor, Nov. 8, 1948. Script books usually make dull, dry reading but the publicity script books of Suffolk University are as alive as tomorrow's news page.

In the past three years, Suffolk brains have dreamed up many public relations devices that have rocked the name of Suffolk University all over the United States. Perhaps it is unfair to call many of these events public relation stunts. They were honestly legitimate, outstanding, news stories.

For example, on May 11, 1948, the United Press, headed by the words of Dr. Leo Lieberman, head of the psychology department, in newspapers, all over the states. Dr. Lieberman had stated, "Kissing is a science as well as an art. A kiss is a hand-drawn picture, and should be handled with respect." Springfield, Mass., was among the first to pick up the story. "A kiss is a hand-drawn picture, and should be handled with respect." Springfield, Mass., was among the first to pick up the story.

Again in 1947, it was the psychology department that took the lead. Prof. Sahakian hit back at Philip Wylie and Dr. Oppen of California who had for years fought against women in colleges, because they felt that college girls did not make good wives.

College Girls Good Wives

Prof. Sahakian's answer was a classic, and again, the UP picked up the story. He said, "Most college girls feel with good reason that they will make better wives than their less educated sisters, because they have been trained to understand and control emotions."

In 1942, there was also a good fight. Suffolk students took the lead against long skirts. All over New England, young girls to old women rallied to the cause in support of the Suffolk students. Their fight was, long skirts for longer, longer, for men. But, Suffolk and the battle was lost. Long skirts became the vogue.

In Feb. 13, 1948, Suffolk students took time out from their studies to pick "America's Ideal Sweetheart." The sweetheart's description was apparently very

"Who's Who" Names 22 S. U. Students

Each year, in more than 600 American Universities and Colleges throughout the country, the names of Outstanding Seniors are compiled in "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges." Outstanding Seniors whose leadership, character, scholarship, and extra-curricular activities show future promise are nominated for this award by a committee representing the faculty, administration and student body.

Since its founding in 1932, the prestige of the nation-wide organization has grown with each year. The book has been a standard of reference of the young men and women of the country.

Promising Employee List
The editors of this publication established a direct contact between the colleges and the professional world by providing employers with information about college seniors who are promising potential employees.

Each year at Suffolk, the students who succeed in making this select group are presented a scroll at the Recognition Day exercises. This year because of the large graduating class, 24 seniors will be honored. One of the highest honors a student at Suffolk University may attain is nomination for Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges.

This year's "Who's Who" nominees are: Ernest Amiral, James Caras, John Clements, Ted Curry, Francis Donoghue, John Egan, Francis Gallagher, Earl Gerson, Billie Glickstein, Leon Hammer, Joseph Hughes, Stanley Jarvis, Robert Kavanaugh, Frank Lagrotteria, Mike Marmer, Edgar McQuarrie, George Murphy, David O'Meara, Steve Panagiotopoulos, Irving Pickering, Norman Raby, James Shea, Tom Sullivan, and Don Woodrow.

The Rambler Staff extends their heartfelt congratulations to the above named people, and wish them the best of luck on their road to success.

In the English department, for example, upon Rita Hayworth they pinned the tag, "most provocative lips."

A Wyman Given "Oscar"

In October of the same year, the first indication of the pre-Boston ability of Suffolk students came to the fore. Jane Wyman was presented an Oscar by the Suffolk dramatic club for her portrayal of Johnny Belinda. The Suffolk production was to last but, many months later, Hollywood presented Jane with a bigger Oscar, but she will always remember her first Oscar, presented by Suffolk.

But the "coup de grace" came on October 25, 1948, when the Suffolk Journal, the forerunner of the SUFFOLK RAMBLER, carried a banner headline that read "Polls Show Dewey to Sweep State, Truman Will Triumph." The first reaction came from the editor of the Boston University News, who said, "this will make the Suffolk Journal the laughing stock of the collegiate world." But to quote an old cliché, "He who laughs last, laughs best." Hopper, Gallup, and the New York Times were wrong but the Suffolk Journal established itself among poll makers for as long as the name of Gallup will be remembered.

SURVEY REVEALS EMPLOYMENT HINTS

A recent survey of practices of business and industrial firms in hiring college graduates throws considerable light on how you can prepare yourself most advantageously for a career in the business or industrial world.

It is reported in an article by included in Dr. Endicott's survey reported that they gave set of Placement, North-eastern consideration to the Employment of College and University Graduates in Business and Industry. It appeared in the March, 1951 issue of "School and College Place" brochures and qualifications statements which applicants should not be "scattered to the winds" but sent to specific companies after careful study of the current year than last year.

Plans for increased hiring of men in 1951 as compared with 1950 were recorded for the following occupations: accounting, chemistry, general business administration, marketing, merchandising, office management, physics and production. The largest anticipated increases were for chemistry and production.

On an overall basis, the firms polled in this survey hoped to hire 9,296 men and 608 women college graduates this year, an 11 per cent increase over last year for each sex.

There will be fewer hirings of men trained in advertising, law, personnel, and sales.

Average Salaries
Last year's study revealed an average starting salary of $245 per month for college men. The average this year went up to $251 per month. Here are the average monthly starting salaries being offered college men in 1951: Sales, $247; accounting, $246; general business trainees, $241; all other fields, $248.

If you want to get ahead on your new job, you'd do well to take heed of some of the most serious problems reported by employers in working with new college grad employees. The shortcomings listed below can contribute to your failure to advance on the job or to hold on to your new position.

The most common problem was the desire of the new workers to advance more rapidly than is possible or their "impatience as to progress." Other employees listed these as tough problems in handling new employees: "Wants salary increase before he is ready for it" and "wants to run before he can walk."

Job Difficulties
Here are other important factors which can retard your progress on your first job after graduation:

1. Difficulty in making the adjustment from school to business.
2. Uncertainty regarding real job interests.
3. Tendency to dislike routine.
4. Unable to work cooperative with others.
5. Unable to see value of training program.
6. Unable ready to accept responsibility.
7. Unable to present ideas clearly and convincingly.
8. Lack of understanding of basic English grammar, and spelling.

Goodman Captures B'nai Brith Award

Elliot Goodman, Law School freshman, recently emerged as the winner of the Martin Plam Memorial Award for success in discussion.

The discussion contest was held at the beautiful Mount Royal Hotel, Montreal, Canada, on the weekend of April 13, 14, and 15, in connection with the combined B'nai Brith Young Women's and Young Men's District One Convention.

Goodman, one of a panel of contestants, which included representatives from Montreal, Toronto, New York, and Boston, gained the right to compete at Montreal by first winning a local and then the New England Regional discussion contest.

The topic discussed was, "How Free Should Freedom of Speech Be?" and it produced much controversy among the participants.

By winning, Goodman has not only won the Martin Plam Memorial statuette, but he has earned a partial paid trip to Chicago, Illinois, and a right to compete against participants from all over the United States and Canada at the Annual B'nai Brith National convention, to be held in the last week in June.

SAFETY RULES

In accordance with the Red Cross Safety Patrol plea for alertness while at the beach this summer, students are urged to take care while vacationing in the various beach areas.

The Red Cross has set out a three point program for all students to remember during the vacation period:

1. Do not enter the water immediately after a lunch.
2. Never attempt to outdo yourself by swimming out too far over your head.
3. Always keep an eye on the younger generation, and warn them if you see them in dangerous areas.
4. Are friendly.
5. Have a sense of humor.
6. Look people in the eye.
7. Frankness and objectivity.
8. Sincerity.
9. Tolerance.
10. Personal appearance and other factors essential to a desirable first impression.
11. Neat, clean, well-groomed, clean-cut appearance.
12. General health and vitality.
13. Physical vigor.
14. Firm handshake.
15. Successful experience in part-time jobs, summer work, or military service.
16. Show initiative by earning part of college expenses.
17. Make progress during military service.
18. Intelligent planning for a career.
19. A clear knowledge of one's own ambitions, purposes, goals, and plans.
20. Evidence of preparation for the interview—knowledge of company and product.
21. Good scholastic record—membership in honorary societies.
22. Willingness to start at the bottom and work up. More interested in long-term opportunity than in starting salary.
23. Application form neatly and completely filled out.

H. S. Speech Contestants Vie In Auditorium, May 19

Once again, Suffolk University will play host to the many high school students participating in the State High School Speech Contest to be held in the Suffolk University auditorium on Saturday, May 19, 1951. This contest is sponsored by Suffolk University in conjunction with the Mass. Second School Principals Association.

JOHN CLEMENTS DRAMA STAR GRADUATING

The "energy" which produces Suffolk University Theater productions loses its "Human Dynamic" this semester. John Clements, backbone of the Dramatic Club these many years, will graduate with the Class of '51.

There is a real story behind the University Theater's first student director. A story of 2,000 man hours to bridge a gap followed by a half hour walk home, night after night when a play was in progress. A story of acting, directing, long hours constructing sets, making and changing props, and the thousand and one things that go into a play. A story of a guy who just never knew he was too tired to stand up. That is the story of John Clements.

John was the recipient of many well-deserved honors in his four years at SU. He received the Best Actor Award in 1949. He has been President and Vice-President of the Dramatic Club in the past three years. His fellow members in the Newman Club of which he has been President and delegate submitted his name for nomination to the Newman National Honor Society. He was also one of the Seniors elected to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

An assistant in the Speech department, John has represented Suffolk as a judge in the Hearst Oratorical Contest and also on the Debating team. Government and Speech are his major subjects.

A Navy veteran, John spent most of his service time overseas in Europe, Africa, and the South Pacific. Member of the Bridgegewater Players and the Stoneham College program of Television and Radio Techniques, John hopes to find his future in Radio or T.V. Public Relations. He recently wrote, acted in, and helped produce an 11 radio show for Station WVEP in Taunton.

All this and Suffolk, too. Co-director of Suffolk's recent Senior Show and a charter member of the Variety Club, Suffolk will sorely miss, and find it difficult to replace, its "Human Dynamic."

Mr. DeForest, Director of Student Affairs, is the chairman of the committee which has as its co-chairmen, James Cook, principal of the Major Best High School, Shrewsbury, Mass.; Howard Thayer, principal of the East Hampton High School, East Hampton, Mass.; and Augustine Whalen, principal of Revere High School, Revere, Mass.

The purpose of this contest is twofold: first, to stimulate an interest among high school students in effective speaking, debating, and reading; and secondly, to provide recognition for the achievement of skill in speech.

There are four categories in which the students may compete: first, debate; second, public speaking; third, extemporaneous speaking; and fourth, dramatic reading.

Contest Open To All

Those who wish to participate are: Chairman of Debate—John E. Sullivan, director of Debate, Revere High School; Chairman of Public Speaking—George Kirwin, Speech Department, Suffolk University; Chairman of Extemporaneous Speaking—Paul LaFalle, instructor at Major Best High School, Shrewsbury, and chairman of the town of Clinton; and Chairman of Dramatic Reading—Mrs. Alice Packard, wife of Professor Packard, head of the speech department, Harvard University, lecturer at the Leland Younger School of Theater and Radio, and well known reader in New England.

This contest is open to any public, private, or parochial school student who is under 21 years of age, and officially designated to represent his school.

Each student qualifying for the final competition will receive an award symbolizing his achievement in speech. Those who win first place in the final competition in each area, and the members of the winning debate team will be awarded five $1,000 scholarships.

Mr. DeForest will appreciate cooperation not only of speech majors, but of other students in helping to do the many jobs necessary in putting over such a statewide contest.

If you feel that you would like to help, submit your name to the student affairs office.

Little Known Facts

First Law School Class composed 5 students in 1909. In 1945, bought its first building located at 85 St. Vernon Street. Building cost $31,000. In 1920, construction of the present University building was started. Building without annex, cost $300,000. 1934—College of Liberal Arts was established Sept. 1935—Graduate School established. Sept. 1936—College of Journalism established.

Built to replace its "Human Dynamic."

LIBRARY NOTES

Employment in the Library is not just replacing books in the stacks, or keeping the noisy fellows quiet, or checking out the books for circulation and study. It is an opportunity to observe the Suffolk student in action. From this observation, the attitudes the students possess toward their studies is very evident. Most of the students fall into two general classifications: Those who are here for serious study; and those who are "floating" their way to a degree.

He, whose main interest is education, enters the library, takes a seat, and settles down to serious study. Not a sound is heard from this type.

In direct contrast, we have the student who makes the "grand entrance" usually by shouting a last minute thought to some friend from inside the library door. Upon entering the library, one cannot help but notice the prominent display of signs requesting silence. But the signs are not meant for this type of individual. Time after time, this type has to be reminded to keep his voice down to a whisper, but not until he is threatened with expulsion from the library does he heed the request. That the necessity for the whole procedure is too juvenile for a college environment is obvious, but unfortunately, only too necessary under the circumstances.

The above type is, at best, a nuisance and not too harmful in the long run. There is another type which is very "small" and detrimental to the character of the school. This type is the "thief" of the University. He steals and plunders books for his personal collection at home. This loss in books has to be paid out of the library budget in replacing the lost volumes. Of course, this prevents the library from adding new additions to its stacks. This thievery has its reflections where it hurts most, in accreditation. When the Board for Accreditation comes to Suffolk, to pass on the University's acceptance, the annual loss of books from the library has to be entered in the report. The next time we come up for accreditation, do not blame the University for failure to meet the necessary requirements. You, as students are also responsible, to a degree, for the failure.

Among the law students, we have the "page teurer". He seems to be very active throughout the law stacks. This individual tears law cases out of the law books making many volumes worthless as a source of law information. This practice makes study difficult and inconvenient for the other law students. This type of disgusting parasite can well be handled by the law students themselves. The old "Coventry" treatment should bring prompt reformation. If not, interest in maintaining the high ethical standards of the profession for which they are preparing should make them willing to take the necessary steps to see that such individuals are booted out of Suffolk and promptly.

On the whole, the Suffolk student is serious, sincere, and honest in all of his actions throughout the university. His main concern is to acquire an education, graduate, and enter a competitive field as a prepared man. The "wise guys" and the "floaters" are lowering the average standard of the Suffolk student. Suffolk can do without them.

This is an appeal to you as mature and intelligent college students. Use your library well and to advantage, but respect yourself and your fellow student by maintaining an attitude of consideration. Above all, do not abuse the books and the staff. The Library Staff is willing to give you all the help you need. Cooperation should be the keynote in every phase of contact and association throughout the University.

Senior Prom Proves Admirable Success

The "class goodnight" are most over a week old, but the memories of the 1951 Senior Prom will linger in the minds of the Seniors for many a day. The once-midnighted floor of the Hotel Bradford provided the scene, and the musical strains of George Gratch's orchestra composed the setting. This combination left little to be desired with those in attendance.

Steve Panagiotopoulos and the Senior Prom dance committee were in charge and they added the final touch by providing each lady with a bouquet as a memento of the evening. The favors were in the form of small, round, maroon, with "Class of 1951" engraved on the back.

The traditional grand march was led by the Senior Class of 1951, as they performed one of their traditional functions in an immaculate fashion.

The evening line included Dean and Mrs. Munro, Registrar and Mrs. Goodrich, Miss Markson, Mr. George Kirwin, Dr. L. L. Latham, and Mr. and Mrs. Kaufman.

E. K. Nabhan Dead

It is with deep regret that the Ramblers staff announces the death of Edward K. Nabhan who was attending Suffolk Law School. Edward, who resided at Salisbury Beach, Mass., was a veteran of World War II and a holder of the Purple Heart for wounds received in Germany.

He died in the New England Medical Center, after an illness of several months. Services were held Tuesday, April 26th, in the Hellenic Orthodox Church, Newburyport, Mass.

YOUR FACULTY

BY R. DWYER AND A. KENT

Dr. Frank M. Buckley

The faculty of Suffolk University has among its members a most genial personality in the person of Dr. Frank M. Buckley, Sr., who is well qualified to teach the youth of today's Atomic Age. Dr. Buckley is the holder of many degrees. He has an A.B. and an LL.D. from Holy Cross, an A.M. from Yale and an Ed.M. from Harvard. He also studied law at Northwestern.

Dr. Buckley came to S. U. in 1947 and is completing his fourth year here where he heads the department of Sociology and also teaches courses in education.

Excellent Background

Believing that the greatest study of mankind is man, Dr. Buckley has devoted unlimited time and energy to education. As Superintendent of Schools in two Connecticut cities, and one in New York state, as well as a professor in an Arizona college, he has seen all forms of education, and as a result has been able to give his courses a valuable background.

High on the list of Dr. Buckley's educational hobbies is a fondness for the old Latin and Greek masters and for the modern English authors.

Jack Barry's Teammate

When asked about outside interests, the cordial Dr. Buckley said he enjoyed collegiate sports, particularly football, baseball, and basketball. Being a Holy Cross man explains his great interest in basketball. He said that he played collegiate baseball with Bill Carrigan, one-time manager of the Red Sox and with Jack Barry, a former star of the Philadelphia Athletics.

Dr. Buckley was born in the Berkshires of Connecticut, and his home town of Canaan is not too far from the part of the Berkshires that Nathaniel Hawthorne and Herman Melville once lived in, when they wrote their masterpieces. Hawthorne wrote his "Scarlet Letter" and Melville wrote "Moby Dick" while living in this region.

FLOYD BELL ELECTED PUBLICITY HEAD

Floyd L. Bell, Suffolk University Publicity Director, has been elected president of the Publicity Club of Boston and was installed in his new office recently.

President Walter M. Burke, who was a guest speaker for the second time within two years at the Publicity Club, warmly congratulated the new President and spoke of the great influence wielded by Public Relations and Publicity men and women of this age.

The new president was for many years Public Relations Director for the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway (Frisco Lines) and of the Ringling Brothers interests.

Journ. School To Compose Next Rambler

With the advent of the fall semester of 1951, the Suffolk Rambler will be under the direction of the Journalism Department, announced Miss Edith Markey, chairman of the Journalism College of Arts and Sciences last week.

The administrative body that is to plan the Rambler under the direction of the Journalism Department, those students not joining in that field will have a better opportunity to participate in the fundamentals which they learn in the Journalism department.

With the complete change in the functioning of the paper, the Journalism Workshop has been added to the curriculum. This new course will be a "map" for all seniors who are Journalism majors, and they are expected to hold the top positions on the staff.

The executive body of the Rambler will be composed of these seniors and the junior and sophomore classes will make up the majority of the reporting staff.

It must be pointed out, however, that this year, but mean a change so complete that students from the other departments will be evaluated from all work. An opportunity will all ways be present to allow non-Journalism students to make contributions to the production of the paper.

Miss Markey will make the new movement into a function properly. The first year, she will select the Editor-in-Chief, Managing Editor, and other staff members. After the initial year, these positions will be handed down from the Senior class.

It must be remembered that this is a long range plan and it will take at least a full series of a professional format.

Business Club Represented At Conference

Fifty members of the Business Club recently represented Suffolk University at the last annual Spring Conference, held jointly by the Student Market Club of Suffolk University, Boston University, Northeastern University, Boston College, and MIT. The conference was conducted in the Charles Hayden Memorial Hall of Boston University.

George Murphy, president of the S.U. Business Club, presided at the afternoon session. He introduced one of the most interesting speakers at the conference, Mr. John C. Stille, Jr., Advertising and Sales Promotion Manager of WBBZ-TV. It was mainly through the efforts of George Murphy that Mr. Stille was present.

The subject of Mr. Stille's talk was, "The Hedra Study, A Measure of TV Sales Effectiveness." This remarkable survey was conducted in Hedra, Colorado, at New York, and it presents in elementary fashion the effectiveness of this new and potent medium of advertising.

The result of this study shows conclusively that the sale of most national brand products have achieved a new high through the medium of the television commercial. The slide presentation was the most effective in enlightening the audience of the tremendous importance that television is having on our lives and on sales promotion.

The panel discussion that followed, gave the students the chance of three panels to attend. In Panel "A," the topic was, "Is it feasible to have an advertising agency in a medium school?" In Panel "B," the topic was, "Opportunities in Wholesaling and Retailing." In Panel "C," the topic was, "Growing Responsibilities of the Sales Manager." Each panel had three speakers, all experts in their respective fields.

This conference brought to a close the first year of activity of the Business Club. The club is to get the "Workshop" under control. Like anything new, it will require guidance for a few months.

In the past, the Rambler staff consisted of students who have had little or no training in this field, but still gave their best efforts. However, it is felt that these positions will be handed over to students who are well trained in newspaper layout and management. It will have more of a long range plan and it will take at least a full series of a professional format.

UNDER COVER

BY PERI TRAUNSTEIN

The provocative Mr. Noel Coward has written a new book—that is he has put together a series of six short stories which takes the title of the longest and best "Star Quality." This publication is an event, not an unusual one to be sure, since Mr. Coward's literary output in the last twenty years is so vast and has indeed been ambitious, but the culmination of any new artistic endeavor on his part is certainly of great interest to his many admirers in his several fields of literary expression.

Certainly one of the most effective of the group is "Stop Me If You Have Heard It," the story of an expatriated wife of an aging poet, who monopolizes his friends' conversations with rife vaudeville stories, and who refuses to believe that his wife's continued expressions of impudence are anything but flattery.

A more dramatic tale is "A Richer Past," the story of a popular English movie star who suffers from an inferiority complex because his younger brother has won a more genuine fame in the Pacific War. Here Mr. Coward takes the opportunity to lash out at the many English film stars who deserted the home front during the last war to seek refuge and celebrity in Hollywood while their countrymen suffered out the war at home and in the trenches. "Mr. and Mrs. Edithell," tells of the sad plight of a lonely couple who have permission to dwell peacefully on a Pacific atoll, but who are molested there by a commercial American airplane company.

One of the more outstanding is "Ashes of Roses," a delightful tale of revenge. A young actress, betrayed by an aged, lecherous married man, becomes sure that in her acting career. At the height of her success, he comes to visit her; she takes her revenge in unbecomingly laughter at the pitiful old man she once adored. The vividness of the portrayal of the contrasted roles is unusually striking.

The last of the group concerns a plot with which Mr. Coward, in his theatrical experience, may well be familiar. It is the story of a selfish, egomaniacal, and selfish actress who tortures a young playwright with the threat of abandoning his first production on the day before its opening. If a minor role is given to a younger and more attractive artist. The author's bitterness and animosity are magnificently described; his disillusionment is made vividly genuine.

This new volume ranks along with the best that Mr. Coward has produced in the short story field and it is certainly well worth a few hours of perusal.

THE UNIVERSITY WITS

STOLEN BOB BENOIT

He "pleased" her. "No." To show what she has done. We scold that modest codfish. The cackling hen we prize. Proving that beyond a doubt, He "pleases" to advertise.

Teacher "Jerry, I'm surprised. For you know, any more jokes like that." Jerry "Yes, teacher." Mary "Well, stay after school." A gum-chewing girl. And the cut-throated cow. Are somewhat alike. Yet different somehow. And what is the difference? I think I know now. It's the clear, thoughtful look. On the face of the cow.

Who are alive like impresses? They make the important decisions, and they don't think you're safe when you're out. The good thing about a one way street is that you can get bumped only in the rear. When success turns some people's heads, it ought to wring their necks at the same time. Teacher "No, Henry, you stay right here and fill up the ink wells." "Going to cut your right eye close?" "No." "Why not?" "Need the sleep."

A girl who thinks no man is good enough for her may be right, but she is more often left. Many a student walks into a queue with the knowledge in the palm of his hand. The codfish lays a million eggs. The barnyard hen has one. The codfish doesn't cackle.

1950-51 SPORTS SEASON

Baseball

Scoring over 3100 points and averaging 69 points a game, the Suffolk basketball squad finished the season with an impressive 105 record. Four players led the squad for scoring honors, dropping the ball through the hoop for 725 points. Jack Stahl was out in front with 248 points and Sal Caputo, Jim Kirion and Art Geller followed with 167, 158, and 152 respectively.

Stahl, only a sophomore, remained the backbone of the team, carrying his accurate shooting and uncanny floor work over from the freshman year. Jim Kirion, a transfer from the University of Miami, added considerably to the strength of this year's hoopers.

Surge By Art Geller

The dark horse of the basketball team was Art Geller who seemed to emerge from some dark corner to sweep into the honor section of the scoring column with his consistent, masterful type of basketball. He was both a good team man and an individual standout for the Rams.

The Dorne Street boys defeated Gordon, Mass. School of Oratory 124, Worcester Teachers College, Hurdett (2), Bridge Water, Boston Teachers College, Assumption, Lowell Textile and lost to Curry (2) Lowell Textile, Bryant, Gordon and Oxford.

The basketball team did little traveling this year, involving only the out-of-town games of Assumption and Lowell Textile. They played their last brand of ball on the Boston Garden court, fighting two thrilling games to thousands of Celtics fans, and winning them both.

The game that deserves to be mentioned most is the Assumption tilt, played in Worcester. The gymnasium was packed with fans from the enemy camp, and Suffolk found that they had only seven men to play the full forty minutes. Without some of their higher scorers, the Rams came from a 13 point deficit at the half to edge out the fast Assumption quintet in the last 10 seconds, 38-36. This showed the fiery spirit of an underdog team with the pressure on. The crowd was on its feet in the last five minutes of the game. Even after the clock had run out, the game continued in the midst of the roar as most of the squad didn't hear the whistle ending the game.

Coach Law is hoping for this kind of a ball club next year, as most of the squad will be back under his direction. Next year's schedule is expected to be about the same with minor revisions.

Hockey

The 1950-51 hockey season at Suffolk University saw all phases of the game which make it one of the most unpredictable sports that it is. The Suffolk team faced one of the most difficult schedules that any "Ram" aggregation had ever contended.

Suffolk was fortunate in having one of the most talented teams in its history and made the most of it. The season got under way with a hard-fought win over Holy Cross, and a defeat by one goal at the hands of the Saint Anselm's six. Suffolk lost its chance for revenge as the weather man didn't favor ice conditions at the Manchester college.

When the Amherst six showed up at the Shating Club in Allston, they were confident of a win, and played a brand of hockey that justified their hopes, but the Suffolk six managed to pull the game out of the fire with a 3-4 win.

American International College proved to be one of the toughest contenders. The A.I.C. men are well known to be the best in collegiate ranks, so the two games that Suffolk lost were not in disgrace.

Ice League Competition

The 1950 season turned out to be the first year that Suffolk was to play an ice league. In late January, the Suffolk team traveled as an underdog to Providence, Rhode Island, where it played Brown University. The Bruins were in a state of frenzy as the Suffolk team got off to a fast start and scored two goals in the first two minutes of the first frame. The Brown sextet outlasted the Suffolk team however, as the final buzz or sounded the tally sheet read 11-5.

Maine has always been a hot bedground for all S. U. teams, and the hockey team is no exception. In February, the team was scheduled to play Colby College in Waterville, Maine, and Bowdoin College in Brunswick.

When the team left Boston, the temperature was well below freezing, but on arrival at Waterville, old soot turned on too much heat and the playing conditions were not satisfactory.

Overtime Tie With Bowdoin

Since Bowdoin was scheduled for the next night, the Suffolk team couldn't wait for the weather man to help the matter. Bowdoin was ready and waiting, as the Suffolk bus pulled into the hockey rink. The Bowdoin team has the distinction of never losing a home game, and the Ram sextet tried everything in the books, but the best that could be done was a 5-5 tie even after the ten minute mark of the overtime period.

Other teams that rounded out the schedule were Springfield College, University of Massachusetts, and a rematch with Holy Cross College.

The 1950 season saw the end of several collegiate careers, and among them was Captain Bryon Balfour who has played four successful years for the Blue and Gold. But graduates this year from the Business College.

Golf

The Suffolk golf team, under the supervision of Coach Jack Keane, started the season in full swing with two impressive wins against Burdett and Lowell Textile.

Suffolk downed Burdett College 7-12 to 1-12 points with Abner, Newcomb, Gallagher, Burke, Keane and Flynn swinging their way to victory on the Commonwealth Country Club course. Mitch Abner shot one under par with a 71 for eighteen holes.

THE SUFFOLK RAMBLER

Taking to the greens again, 8th of May and invaded the Suffolk club defeated Lowell Textile 6-3. The only change in the lineup was John Hulan in Mitch Abner's spot.

Upset By Turfs

Turfs mastered the ramblers at Sagamore Country Club and upset the favored and previously undefeated Suffolk team by a lopsided 7-12 to 1-12 score. Coach Keane said that the team played well below their usual game. A rematch is on the wind and Coach Keane is confident that his team will even the score if the event takes place.

The golfers from Beason Hall moved to Maine on the 14th and

By JERRY SHANAHAN

By this time, your major league team should be shaping up in the pennant race. Will your team be on top of the heap when the other rolls around? No matter who wins the championship, old and young agree there is no time like the baseball season. Whatever type—major, collegiate, or just plain sandlot variety—it acts as a tonic to millions of Americans.

Sometimes, the sound of a thud in a catcher's mitt and the crack of the bat seem to pervade most of the world's troubles. People were avidly reading box scores long before the 38th parallel was ever more than a line in the geography books.

In a world that has changed tremendously in the past decade, with wars and infatuations, baseball is the only thing that has survived all the evils. In these days of nervous tension, it has become a link with the comfortable past.

It's too bad that the game of baseball isn't universal; then every one would benefit from this reassuring feeling. If the European Recovery Act included a few dozen baseball bats perhaps the world wouldn't be in such a fix.

One of the stars on this year's Suffolk nine is second baseman, Eddie Mayo. This is not a new rule for Eddie as he has consistently starred for the team during the past three years.

Ed is typical of the SU athletes; a veteran, married and a prospective father. Under the old rule, he was able to attend college and will graduate this June with a well earned AB degree.

His baseball career started under the able coaching of Steve White at South Boston High School, where Ed played for three years. When he entered the Army, he was sent to the Philippines where he played in the first Army League. At Rial Stadium, Manila, P. I., Ed played against teams of the caliber of the Manila Dodgers, a team comparable to that of the N. Y. Yankees. The teams whom Ed played against in this historic stadium were dotted with such names as: Joe Ginsberg (Detroit Tigers), Vern Riffe (Boston Braves) and Early Wynn (Cleveland Indians). It was in this park that Babe Ruth was reported to have hit his longest home run.

Returning from the service, Ed entered SU in the fall of 1947 after playing a season with Bridgewater, a Washington Senators' farm team in the Colonial League. During the summer vacation, he plays ball in the Boston Park League and also for his hometown team, Holliston, which won the Colonial League divisional championship in 1950.

With a background like this one, we can be sure that Eddie Mayo will again star on many occasions for each and every team he plays on in the future. Certainly, no one will need to worry about "who's on second" with Ed there.

Ever since the death of the "Happy Charivari", the Rambler has abandoned the idea of polluting the scores of the various athletic contests. Some editors in the past have been very successful in predicting trends in the fields of politics and drafts. But as far as athletics is concerned, our batting average remains well under .500.

However, since baseball is the most popular topic of conversation, it wasn't too hard to learn on what the average student thinks the standings will be next October. So here is the consensus:

National League		American League
1951	1950	1951	1950
1-New York	3	1-Boston	3
2-Boston	4	2-New York	1
3-Brooklyn	2	3-Detroit	2

John Abramo, Globe feature sportswriter, was the guest speaker for the students in the courses taught. Education 3.8, but known better as the Theory and Practice of Athletics. Mr. Abramo talked on the values of public relations to high school athletics. Incidentally, if any of you are contemplating a teaching career, it would be well to take this course as it would be instrumental in obtaining a teaching position. The course consists of the fundamentals of all major sports, as well as field work observing actual games.

Little known facts: Before Don Woodruff came to college he owned and operated a diaper supply laundry in Orange. It was called "Diaper Dan the Doby Man." Ernie Warnock, Suffolk hockey star, recently returned from Sioux City where he participated in a national hockey playoff. John O'Brien, last year's star moutdman, is taking a few courses in the graduate school, when not teaching in the local schools. George Karavasilis, VC alumni, came back to give a lecture in ice cream manufacturing for the benefit of the business college. Since this is the last issue until next semester remember:

It isn't defeat that shames a man,

If he can say, when it's done,

That he gave to the fight the best he had

Though the other fellow won.

"Baseball" Who's Who University Sports Suffers Loss As Shea Leaves

It is on a bright March 9th, you had seen a wild-eyed student running the corridors, it probably was Don Shea. As president of the Varsity Club, Don worked many hours to make the Club's annual dance the success it was. For three years, Don held down the job of treasurer on the hockey team and he also found time to pitch four years for the baseball team. Besides his interest in athletics, Don has been an active member of the Newman, Psychology, and Business Clubs. He is one of the founders of the Varsity Club and had served as Treasurer before being elected President.

John O'Brien and Don Shea made up the entire pitching staff for three years until help arrived this year. This role was not new for Don as he had pitched the USS Kingsford in the 5th Fleet championship during his Navy career.

CHARLIE MacDONALD, Junior, usually does his pitching at this time of year, for a Little League White Sox farm team. Mac is well known to Park League fans. Pretty Lacey of hockey.

JOHN SHEA, Senior, the veteran of the pitching staff, Don has managed to play hockey and baseball for four years at Suffolk, besides his other extracurricular activities. Don is also president of the Varsity Club.

EDDIE MAYO, Senior, this is his fourth year for the line and field. He plays for the Holliston team and has played for several Park League teams.

JACK LEWIS, Junior, was too busy to play high school ball, but in his three years here he has combined his service experience with his collegiate talents for a successful season.

ART IRWIN, Freshman, is giving some of the vets a fight for their positions. Next year, you will see a lot more of Art. If he keeps pressing. Another Park League player from Mills A.C.

EDDIE STACHULSKI, Junior, played some good ball for Holliston High for four years and then in the Park League. This is his first season at Suffolk.

JOHN WALKER, Senior, another four year vet, John has played in the Park League and for the Boston Giants. One of the most dependable players on the team.

JACK YOUNG, Senior, the shortstop in the Mayo-Young combine. Jack has played in the Park League for Hyde Park since 1946 and for the Biscuits since 1948. This is his third year for Suffolk.

JOHN ASTRIELLA, Sophomore, played in the Worcester Park League three years, after playing four years for Worcester Commerce. Starred for the baseball team this past season.

LEO DEMAS, Sophomore, another hockey player. Leo has played for the Melrose City Club and several CNY teams. His ambition is to catch.

JORDAN COHEN, transferee from the University of Miami baseball team of 1949. Played for the Waltham High and later for the Waltham Saxons from 1945 through 1950.

JOHN SZCZEMKOWICZ, Senior, set soccer player and running Connie Mack a close second for the title "Grand Old Man." "She" has played in the Park League for the Holliston

Lettermen Enjoy Varsity Banquet

The Varsity Club held its Annual Banquet on May 12th at the Hotel Brunswick. The Award Banquet climaxed the year's sports program and lettermen were awarded sweaters and letters.

John Clements was the master of ceremonies for the evening, and the head table consisted of President Hurry, Dean Miner, Mr. Nichols, Athletics Director Law, and Charles Mal Donahoe and Jack Keane.

Guest speakers for the evening were Dean Geiger, Director of Athletics at MIT. Mr. Geiger gave an interesting and informative talk. He served with the Coast Guard in the last war, and was assigned to the special ist corps for athletics and physical education. He served as assistant to Jack Dempsey in the New York training station. He was transferred to the Coast Guard Academy in 1942 to assist with the training of Reserve Officers.

Mr. Geiger is also the author of "First Aid Dilemmas," a manual which has appeared in the Journal of Medicine.

Those who received sweaters included J. Cohen, J. Long, C. Macdonald, J. Kuros, J. Astrella, P. Chagnon, F. East, A. Babin, D. Chomkowski, D. Farmer, A. O'Brien, J. Feely, J. Trues, A. Cagnon, A. Garand, J. Chomkowski, J. Hahn, J. Kaplan, A. Garber, J. Jackson, A. Gross, J. Flynn, M. Ayoub, R. Jackson, M. Hinton, J. Lydon, and J. Hoffman.

Don Farmer was credited with the win and except for a little trouble in the first never had difficulty. He struck out six and took behind, who pitched the last two innings, struck out two.

Again, the second base combination of Eddie Mayo and Jack Young paid off with a sharp double play when stopped a fair way into the last of the first.

From any angle Suffolk looked and played smart. In addition, base, ball and it looks as though Coach Law doesn't have the pitching problem which plagues the pro teams of Boston.

S. U. Beats Gordon

The Suffolk "Stingers," led by John Walker, who topped Gordon College 21 to 4 in a six inning game, on May 7, Walker showed the way when he tripped in the first driving in two runs to give Suffolk a lead they never lost.

He played for an Army team when won 19 straight. This is his fourth year for Suffolk.

An Athlete's Story

by Don Woodrow

With the sports banquet and its accomplishment can be measured, the athletes of the university are aware of an end to the school year. To them it signifies the closing of the athletic calendar. For many, it will close for the last time. These names will never appear in a starting lineup again.

This year's banquet will climax four years of struggling in an athletic world, inside a university engaged in a bigger struggle for recognition. Each has been trying to help the other, and the athlete has been silently doing both. He never asked for a reward.

The athletes did not participate in sports to be recognized, as no one was around to recognize them. In some out-of-town games only the bus driver stood on the Suffolk sidelines, but the game was always played and played well. Recognition is for the ego, and our boys had neither. The athletes enjoyed the participation, realizing that they might have helped the school in some small way. Personal tributes were not in fashion and the boys were right in style, they played for a team. None asked to be heroes and none were surprised to find that most of their work went unrecognized.

Dominated Smaller Schools. Four years ago, the first of fiscal teams of the university took to the arena. It was in a circle of small schools that Suffolk gained its first playing experience. It would have remained there, but for the Suffolk athlete who was not satisfied. The school broke through this circle of complacency to look for a bigger and better schedule. Athletic Director Law supplied it, and the school began to see more prominent names on the roster. Smaller schools on the schedule began to fade away when schools like Holy Cross, University of N. H., Bowdoin, Colby, Maine, and St. Anselm's replaced them. The progress of the whole school could be measured in the terms of its teams and vice versa. When one progressed, the other followed. The investment in a better schedule also brought more favorable returns in the win-loss column. It gets more impressive each year. The athlete is responsible.

The school, its coaches, its students, its teams, all depend upon that one fellow wearing the blue and gold, the fellow who expects no more than the uniform he wears.

The athletes are the hands and feet of a university that is struggling to climb over the prestige of neighboring schools or trying to swim in the water of their recognition. It is a hard job to come from behind, and no one knows it better than the ones who have experienced it so often on the field of competition. They are interested to see if the school can overcome MacDonald's lead that looked so insurmountable four years ago, but Farmer has been whittled down considerably since then.

College Competition Completed. For some, the active part in college competition is over. D. Astrella is only when this active participation is over that the amount

School Proud Of Its Athletes

The school should be proud of its athletes. They have been tried and proven not as champions, but as good winners and losers. The school still has a long way to go before achieving a big name in college competition, but the average athletes, who have come and gone in the past four years, have made the road to that goal much shorter. No one counted the many times hockey players crawled out of bed at two, three, or four o'clock in the morning to practice, to enable them to play their best against rugged competition. This was the only time that Suffolk could hint the lie to practice on, there were no complaints. No one knew that the basketball team played with only a dozen bats and three dozen balls one season. There were no complaints. Not many know the sacrifice some of the boys have given to wear a blue and gold uniform; they don't know because they are not champions but are made of the same material. They have laid the solid foundation for any championship team ahead.

This year's sports banquet said goodbye to some of those athletes. It was a scene of proud sadness, as they filed their way out of the door for the last time into a bigger world. They will not be lost for they leave behind success and failure the best they had.

May they never be forgotten.

Sportsmen's Prayer

18A 11 Dear Lord, in the battle that
42A 43 goes through life,
21A 47 I ask but a field that is fair,
16A 55 A chance that is equal with all
41A 44 on-side
16A 55 A courage to strive and to dare
12B 51 And if I should win, let it be 42A 12 by the odds of fate.

With my faith and honor, held
"high"
11A 54 And if I should lose, let me stand
32A 46 by the road
22A 51 And cheer as the winner goes
22A 43 by
22A 42 And Lord, my shouts be un-
36A 47 derstanding and clear,
12A 55 A tribute that comes from the
Rm. heart.
12A 42 And let me not cherish a snarl
31A 43 or a sneer
22A 55 Or play any unbecoming part
32A 44 Let me say so, Thore they ride on 22A 51 whom laurels bestow
41A 41 Since they played the game bet-
Rm. ter than I.

32A 50 Let me stand with a smile by 42A 44 the side of the coast
42A 44 And cheer as the winner goes
31A 43 by
32A 47 So grant me to conquer, if I can
11A 51 I pray I can 22A 51 by proving my worth in the 41A 55 fray
31A 43 But teach me to lose like a regu-
12A 56 far man.
Rm. And not like a craven, I pray
12A 50 Let me take off my hat to the 22A 51 warriors who stride
26A 54 To victory, splendid and high
22A 46 Yet teach me to stand by the 12B 47 road
22A 55 And cheer as the winner goes

"Beacon Editor" Remembered Always For Untiring Work

The cold, cruel "working world" will soon spread its arms to welcome Francis "Rance" Donoghue, a gentleman of no few accomplishments. Rance's contributions to Suffolk's archives are generally little known, and little published, his most recent being editor-in-chief of the BEACON, the Senior yearbook.

A rugged lad and a rugged worker, Rance is an ex-semi-professional football player and Army vet. He has been a news writer, feature writer, and associate editor on the Suffolk Journal and Ramble. Probably one of his greatest contributions to Suffolk student lore though in a different vein, was his reaction to the famous (or infamous) character, WASU, the jungle girl. His hilarious writings in A member of the Senior Class JAMMERDONS last year, his Executive Council, past Secretary and Public Relations Officer of the Suffolk Club of Lowell, and a tireless worker in the cause of the Senior Class and Suffolk, Rance is kept almost too busy to indulge in his favorite hobbies: hunting, fishing, and camping out. The latter has been rather difficult since Sept. 3, 1949, for it was on that date that he married the very lovely Peg Powers from his hometown. Lowell, Rance and Peg share many of these things together and truly are an ideal couple.

Rance, a good student, hopes someday to go the way of all Journalism majors and enter the newspaper field or write on his own. A mighty big chunk of the lighter side will be missing when Suffolk's "strong boy," Rance Donoghue, gathers up his many talents and takes that final walk through "E.D." doors and out into that cold, cruel "working world."

Lowell's "Gift" Will Be Missed In Future Years

This year, audiences called his performances "smooth," "classy," "terrific," "outstanding." The Senior Class voted him the "Class MVP" and the "Best Dressed Man." His friends cultivated a long lasting respect not only for his abilities, but for his character. When they said he was "outstanding," they were certainly right. But "terrific" was the more appropriate word to describe him. Mike Marner was extremely terrific. He leaves a legacy to Suffolk that will not soon be duplicated. We'll remember him chiefly for his performances in the dramatic presentations and variety shows, when audiences often nately cheered his portrayals and were pumcked at his bit part.

Even before coming to Suffolk, Mike had an enviable record of experience on the stage. At Lowell High School, he played in light musicals and minuetts. On stage with him many times was a cute little miss who, today, is turning out some hit reworkings. She is Judy Valentie. Mike joined the Marines when he was 17, and while in the service, he produced a show called "Kiss The Boys Goodbye." Later, the boys were kissed goodbye and Mike went to Okinawa and Japan.

Upon his discharge in 1946, Mike connected himself with the L&M Players, a semi-professional stock company in Lowell. Here, he played a number of roles in such plays as "Laura" and "Reverie."

Then, for another year, Mike played with catering stock companies, including the highly respected Windham Players. With this group, he played what he considers, to this day, to be one of his favorite roles, that of Hinder Eatenham in "Waiting Heights." Later, he joined The Lowell Stock Company which featured such names as John Caradine, Diana Barrymore and Freddie Bartholomew.

So began his career at Suffolk. His first job here was the "Hasty Head." His portrayal of "Yank" won the audience and the favor of veteran theatergoers. From then on, students began to look forward to seeing Mike in the Play. He starred again as Walter Lydecker in "Laura," and again in "You Can't Take It With You."

By 1950, Mike was carrying an extra-curricular schedule that would crush a lesser man. He was appointed to the post of editor-in-chief of the Ramble, organized the Variety Club, and acted as master of ceremonies at the Talent Show. At these shows, Mike collected the student audience and proved himself a just master of ceremonies. Students would not soon forget his "Shink Body" verse.

Mike is as pleased he came to Suffolk as Suffolk is. He considers it a good little school with a big future. He has the highest respect for the director of his shows. He says, "George Kiron is the finest director I have ever worked with, amateur or professional."

When some men leave Suffolk, they write a chapter and leave it here. But Mike wrote the book. When he takes his last ride down in the elevator and has his last cup of coffee at the Earle, we'll know that he is gone. But we'll know that he had it, class — real class. Terrific — that was Mike.

SUFFOLK CLUBS END SCHOOL YEAR

Newman Club

The Newman Club of Suffolk University closes another school year, the fourth since its activation in the university, after a well-rounded program of events on the social, spiritual and intellectual sides. The present officers express hopes that the Newman Club under its list of leaders of the succeeding year will forward the interests of the organization and direct efforts to attain new heights of accomplishments.

This year, the Newman Club were the invited guests at dances sponsored by the Stratford College, Simmons College, New England Conservatory of Music besides engaging in the various social activities offered at the Newman Club Center on St. Stephen's Street.

The club was also the sponsor of an afternoon tea, given in honor of one of the Bishops of Boston, Auxiliary Bishop McKenna, and held in the President's office at which all members of the club, the members of the faculty, and of the school's business staff had an opportunity to meet the bishop in person. Bishop McKenna has always had a deep and abiding interest in the Catholic college.

In April, the Newman Club fulfilled its obligations to the national organization by active participation in the annual convention held in Boston. The affair was highlighted by the dance at the Copple-Place Hotel, the business meetings at M.I.T., and the Holy Mass at the Holy Cross Cathedral.

On the spiritual level, the Newman Club of Suffolk University engaged in a Holy Year Pilgrimage with the members of the club visiting the prescribed churches of St. Clement's, St. James, and the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, marching in a unity body together with groups from all the colleges and universities of the Boston area.

As is traditional, the school year is closed by a Communion Breakfast at which all members gather in the spirit of Catholic Communion with their brothers. Among the honored guests were our club chaplain Fr. Petersen, our faculty advisor Dr. Buckley, Dean Munce, President Hurst and the principal guest and chief speaker Fr. Murphy, who spoke on the decline of moral life in American life and the way to reinvigorate the spirit and morals of the people.

On the intellectual side, the club attended the monthly lectures on topics of vital interest to the Catholic college student. Among the outstanding lectures were those on the cultivation of the natural virtues of prudence, justice, obedience and chastity and the supernatural virtues of faith, hope and charity and how all seven become interwoven, and the importance of religion in the intelligent student's life.

Drama Club

The Drama Club has had a very busy year in 1960-1961. Through the auspices of the University Theater "Laura" and "You Can't Take it With You" were introduced to Suffolk.

In "Laura" several new students made their debuts with distinct success, and returned to be even greater hits in the next play.

"You Can't Take it With You" gave fifteen people a chance to act together. Those people achieved lasting fame and two nights by producing what has been accepted as Suffolk's greatest success to date. This play also gave two people the public recognition that their off stage work for the club had merited. John Clements, student director, and Billie Glockstein, promoter. The play received quite an achievement for its quite. George Kewen, speech instructor at Suffolk, Mr. Kewen successfully managed to get fifteen people on stage at the same time, which, considering the size of the auditorium stage was a far more difficult task than it appeared.

During the rest of the year, the Drama Club cooperated with the Variety Club and the Senior Class to produce a Hellscape in Allagash. When about half the names, the top names in each of the three contributing groups, John Clements, as President of the Dramatic Club, and Dean Munce, President Hurst

Chairman of the Variety Club, directed the entire show together. Senior Class President, James J. Carey, appeared as crime czar, Frank Marshall, in one of the original numbers.

The activities of the Drama Club were not limited to stage work alone. Several club members have just recently recited on tape, a half-hour radio broadcast. This show, directed by John Clements, is from an original script by a former Suffolk student, Joanne Morawski. Billie Glockstein, Jim Carey, and Allan Abow are among those whose voices are heard in the show.

The officers for the past year were John Clements, President; Tom Fitzpatrick, Vice President; June Glaser, Secretary; Billie Glockstein, Business Manager.

Spanish Club

One of the most informative clubs here at Suffolk University is the Spanish Club, which is so ably directed by Dr. M.

Jose, professor of the romance languages. During the 1960-1961 year the club held a special program of Spanish music, program of two short films, such as in Mexico, Spain, and Latin America. A Spanish club was taken of all Spanish classes in the university as what was desired from the club, what the students wanted to know was why there was not a greater membership, why the club could not be an aid to students, such as in language difficulties.

During Christmas season, the club held a party and presented dancers from the Boston Latin Academy, in an effort to show the Spanish dances. The club also had student lecture series. These lectures were inaugurated at the beginning of the year and continued through the year.

The last presentation was a full length movie called "Don Barbara". The film was based on the famous novel of Benito Galdos, which was screened on Thurs. evening May 12, in the auditorium.

The officers of the full season were: President, Patricia J. Lander; Vice President, Joseph Ryan; Treasurer, Robert Newton; and Secretary, Charles W. Wozniak. The current officers are: President, Charles W. Wozniak; Vice President, John Chelensky; Treasurer, Ronald Payne; and Secretary, Joseph De Gennaro.

Italian Club

During the past year the Italian Club of Suffolk University has brought many interesting hours to University students. The club presented two Italian films at an open meeting in the Auditorium. One of these was a condensed version of the opera "The Barber of Seville"; the other was a technician film in Italy, shown here for the first time publicly.

At other open meetings, operatic records were played. These opera Festas included all Verdi programs, as well as several music festivals.

Several social topics were planned and presented dealing with various phases of Italian Culture. One of the best of these was one which dealt with Italian contributions to American Society.

Officers for the year were: Frank Lagroterisi, President; Nick Perella, Vice President; Carmine Pizzi, Secretary; Michael Perella, Treasurer.

Elections for the following year were held on May 9, 1961. The new officers will take over the club's activities in September, 1961. They are: Nicholas J. Perella, President; Carmine Pizzi, Vice President; Michael Perella, Secretary; Carmine Pizzi, Treasurer.

The club's last activity will be the annual Banquet. Plans are now being completed for all club members to dine and dance at one of Boston's outstanding Italian restaurants.

Business Club

Although the Business Club is one of the youngest clubs in the university, it has achieved more in one year than seems currently possible.

In October the club was formed under the able direction of Mr. Charles Johnson, faculty advisor. Officers were elected, a constitution drawn up, and committees were formed. The officers were: George Murphy, President; Richard Conner, Vice President; Frank Gallagher, Treasurer; Richard Gallagher, Recording Secretary; and John Hunsicker, Corresponding Secretary.

Two dinners were held. The first was at Chickland in Stoughton, Massachusetts. The guest speaker for the evening was Mr. William D. Hall of the U.S. Dept. of Commerce. The dinner was held on November 16, 1960. The second dinner was held at Steubens and the guest speaker was Mr. W. R. D'Amico, Mayor, Personnel Director of the New England Tel. & Tel. The affair occurred on March 23.

In addition to the two dinners, the club has presented such movies as "The Apartment" and "Make It as Massachusetts". Field trips were conducted to see some plants and factories, as well as Ford Motor Co. and the General Provisions Co.

Within the business club, a Marketing Club was formed and became accepted by the National American Marketing Association.

Representative: Mr. Thomas Galvin occasion. This gave Suffolk University publicity on a national scale.

New social officers are: Rich and Gallagher, President; Hyman Platon, Vice President; Edman Hirsch, Treasurer; Richard Hirsch, Corresponding Secretary; and Paul Moriarty, Recording Secretary.

I. Z. F. A.

I.Z.F.A. got off to a slow start this year due to pressure of other duties. Allan Abow resigned the presidency. The plan of the club's functions was left to the executive board composed of Leo Hammer, Chairman; Howard Leroy, Port Train, and Ben Berger. The club has had several business meetings. It presented an all-university assembly, consisting of a film on Israel, and two speakers, Mr. Max Kishitzky, prominent Boston lawyer, and Mr. David Singer, an Israeli soldier-scientist who was visiting America in order to secure technical aid for the collective and sons of Bern Heim (The House of Brothers).

The I.Z.F.A. chapter participated in all of the regional functions, including The Spring Seminars at Holyoke Lodge in Jaffa, N. H., the seminar at the University of Connecticut and several other sub-regional affairs. The Suffolk chapter of I.Z.F.A. also sponsored a very successful social dance with Salem Teachers College, to close the year.

W. A. S. U.

In the early part of the year, W.A.S.U. presented its third function, the annual tea, to the two-fold purpose of introducing the Suffolk Faculty to the new student body, and the students to each other.

Later in the year, a non-profit "Broad Hope" was held in the recreation hall, where students from other universities posed the idea from W.A.S.U. to provide patterns for the high school. A social time was had on May 20.

To end the year, activities among us had been planned for Friday, May 19th, this time to come can the girls who might be interested in attending Suffolk University.

Suffolk Loses Prized Ruby

Norm Ruby, a man of many parts, takes the last bow, writes the final editorial, and signs the last "30" to his S. U. career. Alert, bright-eyed Norm, with the most amazing personality ever found behind a pair of tortoise-shell glasses.

While at Suffolk, Norm was referred to as "the guy who knew everything" and knew every thing he did. Music, art, science, literature, train schedules, "cab bages and kings." Ask Norm for a paragraph on anything, any subject at all, and he'd give you a volume. He could recite commentaries, poetry, and texts by the hour.

Dean's List Student

He set a record in Journalism that would be a Herculean task to equal. He collected awards like people collect stamps. Norm was a brilliant scholar, never off the Dean's List. Yet he wrote, directed and performed in comedy sketches for the Variety Club which he helped to inaugurate, which still "leave em laughing" when he was an important man behind the scenes with the University Theater.

Norm was attached to the Suffolk Journal as a news and feature writer, became News Editor, and finally Managing Editor of the RAMBLER. His editorials are still read and reread by S. U. students.

A graduate of Boston English High, Norm went into radio announcing after High School. He continued in this work during his early college life. In fact, Norm was a staff announcer at WYVN when Suffolk presented its Radio Workshop at that station. He has also been associated with WYVN in Boston, and WESN in Salem.

Norm's radio background stood him in good stead when he went into the army. He became an announcer for the Armed Forces Network at its key station in Frankfurt, Germany. He has traveled extensively, both as a serviceman and civilian, and would like to continue to do so, preferably by train.

Shanahan Elected Varsity President

One of the largest group of Varsity Club members turned out for their last official meeting of the semester on May 7th, to cast their vote for next year's officers and to formulate next year's activities.

He feels that his best writing is done with short pieces, short stories, and fiction, but his admirers say that there is nothing he can't write well. He has six articles pending all in an agent's hands.

Norm's brightness and humor have been conspicuous by their absence for these past five months.

Remember the name, Norman Ira Ruby, you'll hear it in a big way before too many moons have passed.

Those elected to varsity posts were:

Jerry Shanahan, President
Jack Davis, Vice President
Dan Farmer, Secretary

Ted Netcombs, Treasurer

In accordance with the De- to cast their vote for next year's center of Student Affairs, the remainder of the meeting was devoted to selecting a date for next year's dance. It has always been the aim of the varsity club to have a dance one semester and the banquet the next. However, certain conditions have made this impossible. The Student Affairs office is attempting to regulate all dates so there will be no conflict of dance dates.

The varsity club has applied for the pre-Thanksgiving date which depends on the day set by Congress.

One of the first meetings of the year will be the assigning of committees for well-planned dances.
